Former Law Dean Dies

Following Operation

W. P. Rogers, age 63, formerly dean of the Indiana University Law School, died recently following a series of operations at the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago.

Mr. Rogers received his LL.B. degree from Indiana University in 1892 and his A. B. degree the following year. After serving as an active member of the local bar for a number of years, he became head of the Indiana Law School. He resigned this position to become head of the Cincinnati law school. Later he became an attorney for an oil company and, after holding this position for several years, retired from business.
